Best B&Bs in Britain for 2018 revealed from stunning rooms to the friendliest staff

Britain's best B&Bs have been revealed and they're giving us major staycation inspiration

Bed and Breakfast hotels have long been a staycation classic thanks to their 'home away from home' feel, from cosy bedrooms to hearty breakfasts and lush surroundings.

Now thanks to the AA we've had a major dose of inspiration, as the company has unveiled the winners of its 2018 B&B awards.

They've scoured the UK to search out the best B&Bs where you'll find everything from stunning bedrooms to the friendliest staff.

The best part is, they suit a wide range of budgets too, whether you're looking to splurge for a special occasion or want a budget weekend getaway that won't break the bank.

Simon Numphud, Managing Director at AA Hotel & Hospitality Services said: "B&Bs are an integral part of the British hospitality industry, providing a unique experience and bespoke customer care.

"The AA B&B Awards are an important date in the AA's calendar, as we celebrate all that is great about B&Bs and highlight those that are constantly striving beyond what is expected.

"I'd like to congratulate this year's winning B&Bs for their continued hard-work and for delivering AA customers a fantastic service."

We take a look at the full list of winners below - and why they need to be on your radar for your next British break.

Unique B&B of the Year: The 25 Boutique B&B

With each of its rooms boasting quirky decor from purple and grey hues to a zebra-inspired offerings, it's no wonder that The 25 picked up the award for Unique B&B.

An Edwardian villa, it's just a ten-minute walk to the beach, not to mention that previous guests have praised extra touches in the room from homemade biscuits to fresh flowers.

The bathrooms boast mood lighting as well as robes and slippers - so you might find yourself wanting a cosy night in!

Where? Torquay, Devon How much? Prices from £125 per room, per night.
